Seminar on "Economic Theory of Intellectual Property Rights" was inaugurated on 05-03-2021 by the resource person. Principal Dr.J. Venkatesh, Sri Venkateswara College of Engineering and Technology, during his felicitation address he motivated the students to attend all the programs. Dr.S. Sunithamani, Prof/ECE, SVCET, delivered details about Economic Theory of Intellectual Property Rights.

Intellectual property has unique characteristics compared to other forms of traditional property. It is non-exclusive and non-rivalries. Hence the existing body of law governing such traditional property is not appropriate for governing the ownership, transfer and utilization of Intellectual property. Therefore, Intellectual property rights find their backing in four distinct schools of thoughts.

Traces of this type of justification can be found in primitive IP Laws. For example, the initial United States copyrights and patent law contained this sentence in its preamble- 'to promote the Progress of Science and useful Arts'.

The protection of IP, hence, is done with an intention to incentivize the creator/inventor to produce more intellectual property for the general public's consumption.
