Total number of student's benefitted : 86

- The event was conducted to make awareness to the student about cleanliness and personal hygiene
- Good personal hygiene is important for both health as well as social reasons
- The contents covered in this events are
 - Toilet hygiene: It is extremely important to wash hands after use of the restroom or the toilet. Dirty hands may touch the transplanted area and can be very much prone to infection.
 - Shower hygiene: Personal preference may dictate how often one wishes to shower, but most people will benefit from a rinse at least every other day
 - Nail hygiene: Nails are the most important part of the hands as they come in contact with almost everything one touches.
 - Teeth hygiene: An equally important area to maintain hygiene as what one eats is chewed by the teeth and thereafter swallowed. Regular brushing with appropriate advised pressure is required to be maintained.

- Physical fitness encompasses a variety of factors related to one's overall health and well-being. Here's a summary covering its key aspects:
 - Cardiorespiratory Endurance: This refers to the ability of the heart, lungs, and circulatory system to supply oxygen and nutrients to the muscles during sustained physical activity
 - Muscular strength is the maximum amount of force a muscle or muscle group can exert against resistance
 - Flexibility refers to the range of motion around a joint or group of joints.
 - These are crucial for stability and efficient movement during physical activities
 - Agility involves the ability to change direction quickly and effectively, while speed refers to the ability to move rapidly
- Overall, achieving and maintaining physical fitness involves a combination of regular exercise, proper nutrition, adequate rest, and lifestyle habits that support health and well-being.
- It's important to set realistic goals, gradually progress in intensity and duration, and listen to your body to avoid overtraining and injury.
